Research Abstract

NiSALS is the short version of Neuroimaging Society in ALS. The NiSALS process was started by Martin Turner in 2010 when he invited neuroimaging scientists from all over the world to Oxford. The meeting was very successful, and a second meeting was organized by Julian Grosskreutz in Jena, Germany, in 2011, with a focus on methodologies. For 2012, Michael Benatar has organized the 3rd NiSALS meeting in Miami, Florida. In 2013, Massimo Filippi has invited the NiSALS community to Milan, and Philip van Damme has hosted the 5th NiSALS meeting in Leuven, Belgium. In 2015, Senda Ajroud-Driss from Chicago has taken on organizing the 6th NiSALS Symposium in Orlando, Florida.
